arrives at a gravel pit.

It stops in a secluded area,
hidden by a massive pile of gravel.

On the other side of the pile gravel and swinging it to

TELECINE 2 (CONTD.)

He goes to the back of the van, opens the doors and begins to pull out the bodies of the two heavies.

The crane continues to work.

REEGAN dumps the bodies onto the gravel in an indentation near the foot of the pile. He reaches again into the van and brings out the HENRIEN'S two guns, and drops them near the bodies.

Now he removes his gauntlets and produces some papers (i.e. documents) and thrusts them into the pockets of the dead men.

The crane continues to work.

Reegan runs up hill and starts kicking down gravel.

REEGAN hurries to the van, gets in and drives off.

The van travels, then stops. There is a quiet buzz and the back number plate flicks over revealing a new number. Then the front number plate flicks over. The sign reading "Hayhoe Launderers Ltd" ripples over like a venetian-blind to read "Silcock Bakery".

The van drives off

Country Roads and Weir

LIZ is bowling merrily along in the Doctor's car quite calm. The other car is still following but LIZ hasn't noticed yet.

Suddenly LIZ realises she is being followed and panicks. She accelerates, but the other car still follows. LIZ slews round a corner - the other car follows.

In the other car are REEGAN and two of his men.

Finally the other car overtakes LIZ and cuts in forcing her to stop.

LIZ jumps out and runs off the road into a field.

The heavies leap out and run after her, chasing her across the field.

TELECINE 5 (CONTD.)

LIZ reaches a cat-walk which stretches across the river and begins to run across it.

The heavies follow.

LIZ stops to catch her breath and glances back. The heavies run towards her. She turns and suddenly realises that she is standing over a deep and turbulent weir. She runs desperately on, hoping to get across to the other bank. The leading heavy catches her up and grabs at her. She swings wildly at him and he stumbles.

The second man just stops in time to prevent himself falling over him.

LIZ runs on then suddenly stops - she has reached the end of the cat-walk. Below her and in front is a cauldron of boiling water. Behind her are the heavies. She swings round wildly. The first heavy grabs at her.

She ducks - slips - and vanishes over the edge of the cat-walk.
